CURIOSITY

Pinot Noir is a red berry originally from Burgundy, where it has been probably cultivated for over than 2,000 years. It is part of a family of vines that counts more than 1000 varieties, including the most renowned Pinot Blanche and Pinot Gris. Its name comes from "pine cone" in relation to the shape of the bunches, which is elongated. Vinified in white, it is used as base for the best champagne and classic method sparkling wines.
